NOTICE

Research and Innovation Bulletin

Date –2nd September 2023

With an objective to encourage research and innovation culture, promote critical thinking, and promote academic engagement, the Research Development Cell, in association with the Research Park of NM College, is coming out with the publication of the Research and Innovation Bulletin.

It is a publication that provides information, summaries, and updates related to research and innovation.

All students and teachers can share information on research and innovation (like how to select and use research tools, how to use statistical software, opportunities available for publications, guidelines for ethical research practices, a list of plagiarism software, important links to access globally renowned research papers available in the public domain, intellectual property rights, etc.).

The collected information will be reviewed and selected by the Research and Development Cell of the college.

Here is a link to Research and Innovation Bulletin October 2023 to upload your write-ups, information, research updates, etc. The last date of receipt of information is September 20, 2023, for publishing it in the first edition of the Research Bulletin, which will be released in the month of October 2023.
